

Connection's Day School

ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY FOR INTERNET ACCESS

The Internet is a network of networks that allows people to interact with hundreds of thousands of computers. The use of the Internet shall correlate with the curriculum adopted by Connection's Day School. A responsible user may use the Internet to research classroom projects, send electronic mail (e-mail), and explore other computer systems. However, with such great potential for education also comes potential for abuse. It is the purpose of this policy to ensure that this valuable resource be used in an appropriate manner.

Connection's Day School takes precautions, through teacher supervision, to prevent access to materials that may be defamatory, inaccurate, offensive, or otherwise inappropriate in the school setting. Because information on the Internet appears, disappears, and changes it is not always possible to predict or control what students may locate. While it is possible to select some resources that will be more easily available to students, school officials cannot promise to completely control the Internet environment. Although computers with Internet access are in supervised areas, parents and teachers are responsible for setting and conveying the standards that their child should follow.

ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS

1. Access to the Internet through Connection's Day School must be for educational purposes and correlate with the educational objectives of the classroom.
2. In order for each staff member to have access to the Internet, the staff member must:

 - Using the Internet while access privileges are suspended or revoked.
 - Degrading or disrupting equipment or system performance.
 - Vandalism, defined as any malicious attempt to harm or destroy equipment, data of another user, the Internet, or any other network. This includes, but is not limited to, the uploading or creation of computer viruses.
7. Users are expected to abide by the generally accepted rules of network etiquette. These include, but are not limited to, the following:
- Be polite. Do not be abusive in your messages to others.
 - Use appropriate language. Do not swear, use vulgarities or other inappropriate language.
 - DO NOT reveal any personal address or telephone number.
 - Recognize that electronic mail (e-mail) is not private. People who operate the system have access to all mail. Messages relating to or in support of illegal activities may be reported to the authorities.
 - Do not use the Internet in any way that would disrupt its use by other users.
8. School disciplinary action or legal consequences may result from violating acceptable use of Internet access.

HOMEROOM TEACHER

I have read the terms and conditions of the Connection's Day School Acceptable Use Policy for Internet Access and have reviewed this agreement with the student. As the homeroom teacher, I agree to supervise and to instruct the student on acceptable use of the internet and proper internet etiquette within my classroom. The school has taken precautions to restrict access to controversial material, but it is not possible to completely control such access.

ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY FOR INTERNET ACCESS

(For Students & Parents/Guardians)

Connection's Day School is pleased to offer its student's access to the Internet in the classrooms. The Internet is a global information system with great educational potential. We see the skills required for its use as vital to our students when they enter higher education and the work force.

Our primary purpose in offering the Internet connection is educational. It is essential that everyone who uses this connection understands that purpose. Attached is the Internet Acceptable Use Policy. Please read this document, discuss it with your child, sign the contract, and return to your child's teacher.

The use of the school Internet is a privilege, not a right. Before being allowed Internet access, each student will meet with a teacher to review the Acceptable Use Policy, learn about proper use of the network, and become familiar with Internet etiquette. Inappropriate use will result in cancellation of Internet privileges.

As the parent or guardian of this student, I have read the Connection's Day School Acceptable Use Policy for Internet Access. I understand that this access is designed for educational purposes and that Connection's Day School has taken precautions to restrict access to controversial material. However, I also recognize it is not possible to completely control such access. I will not hold Connection's Day School responsible for materials acquired through inappropriate use.

I understand that administrators, at their sole discretion, reserve the right to suspend the internet use of any student who misuses internet privileges.

I hereby give permission for my child to have access to the Internet as school.
